

Worplesdon Primary School – Weekly Update

Dear Parents / Carers,

Friday 18th October, 2019

It was lovely to see and to meet so many of you at our parents evenings this week. We hope that you enjoyed the opportunity to have a look through your child's books and to discuss their progress.

In English this week the children have been working very hard to include relative clauses in their writing to add extra detail for their reader. We have been doing this whilst re-telling part of The Butterfly Lion by Michael Morpurgo.

In maths the children have been using and applying their addition and subtraction skills and developing their understanding of representations of this including the bar model and part, part whole model.

In our topic lessons, the children have been busy carrying out research about their person who has left their legacy on Britain and next week they will be presenting their findings to the class. Any reading aloud that they can do at home will support them with this.

Just a reminder that towards the end of next week we will be sharing our homework with the class. The children can bring any evidence in of having completed this homework that they like, for example, they may like to show us their Hakka moves or bring in the recipe for something that they have made or bring in a photo of them completing their chosen task.

We will have a busy week next week with the children finishing for their Half Term break on Thursday (24th) due to our INSET Day on the Friday.

We thank you for your continued support,

The Year 5 Team
