

Worplesdon Primary School – Weekly Update

Friday 1st October

Dear Parents / Carers,

Another week down as we race into October – where has all the time gone?

As the weather continues to take a turn for the worst, and is often very unpredictable, please could we ask that all children come to school with a coat every day. Even a light rain coat that they keep at the bottom of their bags would be really helpful to ensure that children can let off some steam outside, whatever the weather.

On Google Classroom, we have published our homework passport for this term. In addition to reading every week, there are also some lovely ideas for extra activities to complete linked to our Autumn term topics. Just before Christmas, the children can bring in anything they have made as part of this, or they can upload pictures and videos online as well.

Please also don't forget our online resources that the children can also use from home. Purple Mash in particular has recently been updated with a new look and is continually updated new games and activities. If your children are finding it hard to get logged on, just let us know and we can show them in school.

Finally, please don't forget to sign up for our virtual parents evening meetings – all the details are available through ParentMail but if you have any problems, contact the office as soon as possible.

Have a lovely weekend,

Mr Clifton, Miss Bennett and Mr Djadali
